ADDRESS

Delivered by John T. Buck, Mr. Et. H., Pr. of Jackson Royal Arch Chapter, No. 6, on the 9th December, 1871.

COMPANIONS: Once more we are per mitted by the kind providence of the Great "I AM" to meet in this hall for the purpose of closing up the business of the old year and preparing for that of the new. I have deemed this a fit occasion, even though I may consume valuable time and perhaps fatigue you, to take a brief review J. F. Forte, H. Suppose each one asks himself this question to-night and then looks back for only one year and see when and how we have failed; I fear, companions, that we would find our failures so frequent we would conclude that it was hard to find even one instance in which we had not failed. Are we profane? if there is anything that rises high above all others as a violation of the fundamental principles of Masonry it is profanity; it is an insult to the majesty of Heaven, an open violation of God's law, and falsifies the only creed that a Mason is required to profess; how a man who has received the lessons that every Royal Arch Mason has, can then in the fac of all he has been taught (and to the truth of which'he bears testimony) deliberately and habitually profane the sacred name of Diety is more than I can understand. Are any intemperate? Masonry teaches us to be temperate in all things; and there is no one thing that has done as much to drag Masonry down and debase i. in the eyes of good men who are not Masons, as the crime of drunkenness on the part of members of our Royal traternity; but even the intemperate Masons would agree with me here, and endeavor thereby to break the force of this truth; and then comes the excuse, "I have formed the habit and cannot resist the eraving of my appetite," I cannot admit the force of this excuse. You ought not to suffer yourself to become a slave to this master, and if you are one, remember, "that though thy right eye offend thee (or cause thee to offend) pluck it out and cast it from thee;" you cannot be a consistent M. Cr. Mason and an intemperate one.

It is unnecessary to, dwell especially up-S. P. Balev, P. S. on the faults which are regarded as most un-J. Martz, R. A. C. nasonic; there are many things of which I fear most, if not all, of us are guilty that are regarded as unimportant, and to these I would call your attention for a few moments and urge their importance: we discuss Masonic business too much in presence of protanes; how often do we find a group loud tones the transactions of the Louge or Chapter, and not unfrequently, perhaps, you see two or more persons engaged in the conversation who are not Masons; companions, the world has no business to know J. N. Daniel, S. anything that transpires in the Chapter un- W. less it is something that is published by its | 8. P. Baley, P. S. order; these public conversations, ashie J. Martz, R. A. G. from the danger of divulging what ought not to be divulged, make Masonry common and should be avoided. Do we guard with jealous care the good name of a companion? or do we not often (either by act or word) careful upon any and all occasions to treat with deference and courteous respect the feelings and opinions of a companion? Are we careful to manifest in our daily walk before the outside world that we are governed by the principles of morality and stalled as follows: virtue which we profess, or is our professions, "but as sounding brass and a tinkling cymbal" because unaccompanied by the ight kind of fruits. During the past year S. P. Baley, K. death has not been idle in our midst; we John Mariz, S miss from our assembly to-night our be- D. N. Barrows, C H. was called by our Great High Priest to ex- J. MAURY'S GEOGRAPHICAL SERIES, By Commodore M. F. MAURY, of the Virginia Military Institute. A series of books which mark as era in the study of this science, and which, in the words of a well known and accomplished Southern teacher, "are characterized by a felicity of arrangement and simple freshness of style which must ever render them attractive to the young, and which will be used by all who wish to teach recogniphy as a science, as something to make pupils think, and not merely as an enumeration of dry facts." Holmes' Readers and Spellers,

By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL.D., Professor of History and General Literature in the University of Virginia. A series of Readers unequalled in cheapness, excellence, and typographical beauty. They are steadily progressive in character, bright and fresh in their selections of prose and verse, and illustrative of Southern scenes, incidents, and history. Venable's Arithmetical Series, By CHARLES S. VENABLE, LL.D., Professor of Mathematics in the University of Virginia. These books are received everywhere by intelligent teachers with the highest satisfaction, as being most admirably adapted for mental drill, as well as for business educa-tion. Their methods, rules, and reasonings are clear, distinct, logical, and comprehensive, and the series is carefully graded throughout. Holmes' History of the United States, By GEORGE F. HOLMES, LL D., of the University of Virginia. It is enough to say of this admirable work, interesting, impartial, and truthful, as well as pure and graceful in style, that it is the only History of the United States which is strictly unpartison.
